Preface

We, the annual staff, have attempted to reveal to you your life while at the Williamston High School. In revealing your activities, parties, sports, entertainment, and classes our annual also records the four years' progress of us Seniors.

Our fellowship with you has been wonderful; we hope that our representation through words and pictures pleases you.

The predominant thought among us Seniors is that through the coming years we shall be separated. Our consolation is that through the 1957 SKEWARKEE we shall remain a united class.

Dedication

Class History

BARBARA PEELE
Historian

The forest was silent; the animals were still; and among the members of our tribe peace reigned supreme. Our little settlement, Skewarkee, was well satisfied with the world—all was well. Peace was short-lived, however, for all too soon the white man came to our little settlement and began to sow his culture amid our inhabitants.

The white man's work was good. He renamed our little world Williamston, and having promoted peace and good-will between the Indians and himself, he placed all of us on a reservation. He wanted the Indians to learn the white man's ways so he took all the papooses and put them in a wigwam—this he called school—and the year was 1945. The teachers had many problems, for their new and eager students were living in an unfamiliar world.

Somehow we managed to survive the first five years and to pass the work the white man required. We had learned to speak and write this new, strange language called English. We learned to recognize our names when written.

The boss white man was pleased with our progress, so plans were made to build a new and larger building so our younger brothers and sisters could come learn the white man's ways too. We were glad to give the old building to our brothers, for we looked forward to blazing new trails each day to our new campus.

The white man's ways were no longer strange and mysterious to us. We didn't quite understand his science, so one day he sent us on a long, long trail that led to Chapel Hill, where we were astonished to see huge machines in an odd shaped building called a planetarium. By this time we believed we knew everything, but the white man believed differently. He had another place for us to go; he called it high school.

Going to high school was the greatest experience of our lives. We were mixing now with other tribes, but we took a special liking to the Farm Life Tribe and invited them to join our pow-wow.

The Farm Life Tribe joined us in our new experience and we learned to live happily together.

Now the time had come for us to learn something of the white man's way of government and governing people, so a student council was organized.

We began to take organized trips with the various organizations within our school. We traveled with the band and the glee club, and we brought back superior ratings for the white man to cherish. Our strong, young warriors battled warriors from distant tribes and captured many important trophies.

During the second year in the white man's high school, we sponsored our first dance. We shall never forget that dance, for it was the annual Valentine dance.

When we became Juniors, we felt like kings and queens. Our exhaltation vanished quickly, for we soon learned that many chores had to be performed. They included selling refreshments, picking up paper in the ball park, and cleaning up the cafeteria after dances.

A new club was founded by the white man to train us to become teachers. The Future Teachers of America was charted to provide us with this needed training.

Now for the first time we became actors in our class play. We produced "The Ghost House," and it proved a successful venture.

We were possessed of vivid imaginations; we dreamed of the future. We used our imagination when we prepared the theme for our annual Junior-Senior banquet. We used the large colonial mansion with colored servants providing the entertainment and food. We named our banquet "Colonial Days." We were well pleased with the results of our imagination, but after that 'night of nights' we were ready to return to reality and wait and ponder the future.

At last we were Seniors. We would receive a diploma from the white man as a token of our work in his school. We would achieve our life-long desire. We would graduate.

Because we were Seniors and because we had been good Indians, we were granted the privilege of visiting New York City. We were awe-struck at the sights we saw. We gained much experience, education, and happiness as a result of our tour of the world's largest metropolis.

Now we could have rings, so we chose our green stone settings. Some of us decided to purchase class pins. We voted on the kind and style of calling cards, as well as our official invitations.

During our Senior year we made a book. This book was our annual, the Skewarkee. Those meetings of the staff were filled with work, joy, laughs, music, refreshments, and gossip, with the accent on work. We hoped our efforts would result in a success.

To make our Senior Year perfect we were given a brand new gymnasium. How beautiful and roomy! During our first game the floors were slippery. It was said we played horizontal basketball; nevertheless, we won.

We finished the last year of the white man's school. Our tribe had decreased in number but had increased in knowledge, strength, stature, and ability. We were glad that we had been given this opportunity. We appreciated the efforts of our faculty to educate us, their patience with us, and their understanding of our problems. Our principal had done well by us when he planned our course of study. He had given us subjects which would better prepare us for life in the future. It was with heart-felt emotion that we thanked all who were responsible for our final victory—graduation.

Our history is one of sincerity and love. Our twelve years together have been fruitful. We shall never forget our trials and struggles during the best of all years—school days. We have embraced the white man's culture; his God has become our God, and through Him we have gained wisdom, strength, tolerance, and courage. Through His power we know that our tribe will be forever united.

We, the Senior Class of 1957, being of sound minds and bodies, recognizing the needs of the future senior, and being of a generous nature, combine our experience with the teaching of the devoted faculty of W.H.S. when we write our last will and testament. To the rising seniors we bequeath these qualities which we hope will help make their last year a memorable one.

Evelyn Council leaves her diamond to Betty Modlin.
Sallie Crisp wills her long hair to Sue Eubanks.
Virginia Holloman bequeaths 12 inches of her height to Bonnie Jones.
Robert Williams wills his "bopping" ability to Snelton Chesson.
Alex Jones leaves his deep voice to Gaylord Perry.
Dale Gardner bequeaths her determination to Shirley Bland.
Freddie Harrison leaves his ability to beat the 8:33 bell to Bill Carstarphen.
Blanche Manning leaves her evident popularity at election time to Georgia Jones.
Eunice Grimes bequeaths her cheerleader's uniform to Jean Woolard.
Willie Beaucham leaves his side burns to Buck Manning.
Mary Lee White wills her "giggles" to Genie Glover.
Letitia Ryan bequeaths her ability to make all "A's" to Sally Grey Griffin.
Jimmy Hardison leaves his football jersey to Joe Murphy and Aaron Davenport—to use together.
Sylvia Griffin wills her originality to Betty Jean Revels.
Ann Darden bequeaths her voice to Dorothy Moore.
Mary Frances Martin leaves the job of filling her majorette boots to Constance Chesson—just the boots.
Kenneth Kerley wills his Rock Hudson appearance to Paran Wheeler.
Nancy Britton bequeaths her basketball uniform to Crissie Gurkin.
Jimmy Rogers leaves his most athletic superlative to Jimmy Cooke and Ray Pate.
Barbara Peele bequeaths her knack for misleading questions to Mary Ola Gay.
Billy Thomas wills his musical talents to A. P. Griffin.
Patty Mobley leaves her devotion to one man to Loretta Harrington.
Kay Taylor bequeaths her participation in class discussions to Jacy Manning and Ralph Peele.
Lois Modlin leaves her calm and collected nature to Sandra Modlin.
Delbert Wobbleton leaves his willingness to work to Danny Manning and Roger Mobley.
Betsy Riddick leaves her appreciation for a good joke to Joe Godard and Gerald Coxe.
Edna Taylor bequeaths her school spirit to Mary Lynn Pate.
Kenneth Perry wills his popularity with N. Y. girls to all the Junior Boys going to N. Y.
Sue Shipley leaves her figure to Rachel Cherry.
Mary Frances Ayers leaves the front row seat on the Farm Life bus to Nancy Lou Tice.
Mitchell Gurganus bequeaths his interest in chemistry and physics to Dale Rodgerson.
Peggy Rogers leaves her petite stature to Peggy Stevenson.
Mary Lou Cox bequeaths her smile to Mary Claudia Cherry.
Jimmy Mizell wills his love of agriculture to Guy Thomas.
Janice Hardison leaves her ability to take good pictures to Leona Coltrain.
Gordon Peele bequeaths the care and keeping of his model "A" to Kenneth Gurganus.
Carolyn Beauchemin leaves her hard-to-spell last name to Mary Charles Beauchemin.
Ann Harrison leaves her frankness to Walter Whitaker.
Frankie Edwards bequeaths her self confidence to Beth Spivey.
Robert Bowen wills lust for Luckies to S. M. Rogerson.
Priscilla Gurganus leaves her pleasing personality to Nancy Roberson.
Charles Edwards bequeaths his dramatic talents to Ronnie Rawls.
Jo Ann Tew wills her Beta Club pin to Frances Johnson.
Emma Jean Godard leaves her punctuality to Betsy Davis.
Tommy Gurganus wills his interests in baseball to Gerald Stalls.
Ann Na Pier bequeaths her ability to make friends to Christine Roberson.
Peggy Wynn bequeaths her car to Roberta Harrison so the seniors won't have to walk up town
Tommy Phelps bequeaths his alertness to Jon Griffin.
Jeanette Bowen leaves her resourcefulness to Lois Williams.
Emma Jean Riddick wills her truthfulness to Carolyn Holiday.
Jane Peele wills her oral French talents to Patricia Bell.
Peggy Goddard leaves her school bus to anyone who will drive it.
Shirley Pate wills her pleasing tone of voice to Peggy Jean Taylor.
The entire Senior Class bequeaths their love for the senior sponsors to the rising seniors.

Class Prophecy

LETITIA RYAN

Prophet

In order to answer the requests of publicity agents and the pleas of newspaper reporters, I shall try to give you all information on hand concerning the reunion this past week of the 1957 graduates of the Williamston High School. Because of our tribe's many celebrities, numerous rumors have been circulated to create interest in the meeting. First, no huge quantities of "firewater" were consumed and only coffee and unspiked punch were served. Second, contrary to all reports, the tribe is quite civilized. We haven't gone Indian or turned savage! In fact it was only the uncontrollable joy of seeing each other once again that caused us to go a little wild. To prevent error I shall quote verbatim from my diary.

"DEAR DIARY,
EVENING DECEMBER 7

Many memories flooded into my mind today when I received the plain white invitation announcing the reunion of the 1957 graduating class of the Williamston High School. I made plans to arrive a week early in order to help the former Mary Lee White, now wife of the Mayor, prepare for the arrival of our guests of honor, Mr. George McRorie and Miss Anna Belle Privott. Miss Sue Shipley, first lady Associate Justice of the United States Supreme Court, called, and we made plans to fly down together.

DEAR DIARY,
EVENING DECEMBER 15

Although I am exhausted from the trip, I shall attempt to remain awake long enough to record the many interesting events of the day. At the controls of the plane which picked me up this morning was Delbert Wobbleton. He informed me that he and Tommy Phelps operated a small thriving airline company. Neatly tucked inside his plane were the musical director of Radio City Musical Hall, Ann Darden; the Metropolitian opera star, Blanche Manning; Senator J. W. Hardison, and Sally Crisp, social worker in the Bowery. On the way down Senator Hardison and I, Ambassador to France, discussed matters of foreign policy.

When we arrived, we were confronted immediately by many problems. Willie Beacham, a correspondent in Tibet, Wade Hardison, now in the Coast Guard, and Ann Napier, a missionary in Russia, won't be able to make the trip. Jimmy Rogers, CBS sports commentator, and Kenneth Kurley, New York Yankee pitcher, weren't sure if they could attend. But, we were all overjoyed to hear that Mrs. Pattie Mobley had again become a mother only two weeks before and could therefore join the fun. North Carolina Governor Henry Handy (he's still a great leader) phoned acceptance for his private secretary, Edna Taylor, and for himself.

DEAR DIARY,
DECEMBER 20

Because the reunion is being held during the Christmas and New Year Holidays, Mitchell Gurganus and Frankie Edwards, now Mr. and Mrs. and professors at North Carolina State College, will be able to add to the gaiety. Dr. B. B. Thomas, of Atlantic Christian College, arrived today to make arrangements in his home for our servicemen. Arriving tomorrow with Kenneth Perry, an Air Cadet, will be Charles Lee Edwards and Robert Bowen, members of the United States Navy. Other teachers and professors who have already come or will come in the next day or two are Jo Ann Tew, Jane Peele, and Sylvia Griffin.

DEAR DIARY,
DECEMBER 21

A special plane is being chartered by the graduates who reside in the West. Eunice Grimes, wife of a Texas millionaire, and Mary Frances Martin, Hollywood's latest sensation, head the list. Included in this distinguished group will be Peggy Wynne, Miss Martin's publicity agent, Freddie Harrison, a successful business man, Robert Williams of Williams' School of Dance, his secretary, Betsy Reddick, and Evelyn Council, wardrobe director at Warner Brother's Studio.

DEAR DIARY,
DECEMBER 22

I noted today that many of the graduates have kept Williamston as their home. Gordon Peele, internationally famous for his automotive designs, remains a home town boy. Jimmy Mizzell has become a Williamston farmer. Some of the local homemakers are Carolyn Beauchemin, Emma Jean Reddick, Peggy Goddard, Peggy Rogers, and Jeannette Bowen. As I looked upon these fine mothers and their children today, it made me proud indeed to know them.

Although we have only one representative in Hollywood, we have several in television. Virginia Holloman has a variety show where she plays her beloved records. Janice Hardison is one of the girls with peaches and cream complexion who advertise cosmetics on the $64,000 Question. Lois Modlin has become the funniest comedian of the season and Kay Taylor as gossip columnist can't be topped.

DEAR DIARY,
DECEMBER 23

Last minute notes for reunion. Priscilla Gurganus and Nancy Britton, the country's best designers, arrived today and brought with them many beautiful creations. Because everything couldn't be put in one car, Shirley Pate, test driver for General Motors, volunteered to drive and bring a load. Florist Ann Harrison will contribute flowers while Mary Lou Cox will contribute her skill as an expert hair stylist. Tommy Gurganus, Williamston's newest barber, will be on hand if any of the alumni need a shave or haircut.

As Dale Gardner, noted photographer, records the reunion on pictures; novelist Barbara Peele will describe it in words. Mary Frances Ayers, the famed financier, will handle the money problems. Emma Jean Godard, today's Betty Crocker, and Alex Jones, owner of a chain of grocery stores, will work together to prepare our banquet."

Because our novelist and photographer covered the remaining portion of the reunion, I shall not repeat. So as you can see, no harm was done, no one was scalped, no massacre occured. Perhaps the blood curdling Indian screams in the night did awaken some or perhaps the steady throbbing of the tom-toms caused some concern, but after all it was the first big gathering of the tribe, and it would be many moons before they would meet again.
